II.—Interpretation of the Tibetan Inscription on a Bhotian Banner, taken in Assam, and presented to the Asiatic Society by Captain Bogle. By M. Alexander Csoma Körös. [See Pl. VI. fig. 3.]

[In a letter to the Secretary of the Asiatic Society; see also Proceedings of the Asiatic Society, 4th May, 1836.]

According to the request conveyed in your letter of the 30th April, I have translated the piece of magical superstition which you have faithfully transcribed from the Bhotian board. With exception of the salutation at the beginning and the conclusion, and a few terms in the middle, the whole is in the Tibetan language. The purport of it, as will be evident from the tenor of the translation, is, to obtain the favour and protection of several inferior divinities, to increase the prosperity, &c. of the person and family for whom the ceremony was performed, and this magical piece was erected or set up.

It may be that the flag-staff, with the wooden board containing this inscription, was carried before the Tibetan chief in his march, and so used as an ensign in war; but it is more probable that it belonged originally to the house top or terrace of the prince in Bhotan: for the houses of great personages in that country are generally decorated with such ensigns of victory at the four corners of the terraced roof. They are called in Tibetan भ्रान्तिक र्ग्याल मित्स्न (ensign of victory), and always contain inscriptions of similar purport with this.

In regard to the orthography of the piece, it frequently occurs in Tibetan writings and books, that the vowel signs are removed from their proper places, on account of the dependent letters of the line above; several cases of this occur in your transcript. The intersyllabic points at the end of a line are generally also omitted, except with the conjunction एं which will also be remarked here. I have made a copy in Roman characters, and have also endeavoured to make a literal translation: the words in Italics I cannot properly interpret.

Oṃ svasti, pronounced by the Tibetians oṃ soti, is rendered by them in their language ओऽ मेरे जैसे विषु विषु oṃ bdé-legs-su gyur-chig: “Oh may it please, may it be prosperous.”

III.—Note on some of the Indo-Scythic Coins found by Mr. C. Masson at Beghrám, in the Kohistán of Kábul. By JOHANNES AvDALL, Esq. M. A. S.

[Read at the meeting of the 6th May.]

The results of the valuable researches of Mr. C. Masson, Dr. Martin Hönigberger, Lieutenant Burnes, the late Dr. Gerard, and Khrámat Ali, in the vast field of the numismatology of ancient Bactria and other parts of India, must have excited a deep interest among the antiquaries of Europe. It must also be highly gratifying to the lovers of this important science on this part of the globe, to observe the unabated zeal and assiduity with which these researches are continued by eminent numismatologists, with a degree of success exceeding their most sanguine expectations.

Of the Indo-Scythic coins, discovered by Mr. C. Masson at Beghrám, in the Kohistán of Kábul, and described in the 28th number of the Journal of the Asiatic Society, the one bearing the Greek legend Nanaia, has, it appears, attracted much attention. He is persuaded to think it to be identical with Bibi Nanni, or “the Lady Nanni,” a name given by the Muhammedans to the numerous shrines or Zadráté, as he calls them, found in those regions of Asia.
