Tibetan Documents concerning Chinese Turkestan. IV: The Khotan Region

By

F. W. Thomas

[From the Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society, January, 1930.]
COMING at length to Khotan, we observe first that it is frequently mentioned in the documents under its name Ḥu-ten or with minor variations, such as Ḥu-den (M.T. a, iii, 0063), Ḥu-then (M.T. b, i, 0098). The country and the inhabitants are designated Li, as in the other known sources. The material may be grouped under heads as follows:—

I: The Khotan district and city, including A, The two rivers; B, The Parishes and streets; C, Temples or Monasteries; D, The citadel of Khotan; E, The Khotan King; F, Amacas, a Nan-rje-po and a Dmag-pon. II: Śīn-śan. III: Gyu-mo, Ḥo-ton Gyu-mo, and Ho-se Gyu-mo. IV: Places with names ending in rtse. V: Other places presumably in the Khotan region. VI: Places or states adjacent to, or connected with, the Khotan region. VII: Personal names of Khotanī people. VIII: The Khotan language.

The material found in these, for the most part fragmentary or hardly decipherable records, is naturally discontinuous; but it is abundant and valuable as enabling us to control and extend the information contained in Tibetan, Chinese, and other literary works. In order to place the reader in a position to judge whether the proper names have been correctly elicited, more than one reference, where available, is given, a course which may also serve the purpose of shedding light upon the circumstances of the time (the latter part of the eighth century A.D.) and the manners of the 1 I take this opportunity of mentioning that of the Stein documents treated in these articles those indicated as M.I. (Mirān) and most of those indicated as M.T. (Mazār Tāğh)—excluding any from the "Third Expedition"—are among those examined by Professor A. H. Francke for Sir A. Stein's "Reports". The slips containing Professor Francke's accounts of the documents (in their then unimproved condition) are preserved in the India Office Library, where they can, no doubt, with consent, be consulted. The information elicited by him is summarized in his well-known article (JRAS. 1914, pp. 37–59) and in his "Appendix G", pp. 1460–6 of Sir A. Stein's Serindia.

people. Some further materials bearing upon the latter topic may be assembled later.

Places mentioned in the Tibetan literary accounts of Khotan or in the Kharoṣṭhī documents have been considered in the two articles published in Asia Major, ii (pp. 251–71) and the Festgabe Jacobi (pp. 46–73). Unless recurring in the sources now under examination, they will not be referred to in the present connection.

It seems, however, worth while to take note of one case where the Chinese evidence enables us to give with some exactness the geographical position of the place. This is the Poṅge or Singa-Poṅge (or Poṅgeya) of the Kharoṣṭhī documents (see Index), which is clearly the fortress Poṅg-houai of the Chinese itinerary (Serindia, p. 1331), something over 60 miles from Khotan.

II. "To the company of above (sc. east of) the rivers, as chief of seven Khotanis, the Khotani Bun-dar-ma was sent. Is in the Parish Has-go-ṇa.

III. "To the company between the rivers, as chief of nine Khotanis, the Khotani Śir-de of Bar-ma-ro-ṇa was sent.

IV. "As chief of the six city-officers (or men) the Khotani Khom (Khrom ? Khos ?)-še-dad was sent. Is in the street Ba-žo-ṇa.

V. "The Khotani Gu(Gru ?)-jo(dze ?) was punished (executed), 1 : the Khotani Sam-rba(ga ?) was (or thirty (sum. cu) Khotanis were ?) punished (executed)—figures."

Here we have the same discrimination of the lands east of the rivers, west of the rivers, and between the rivers, which, as occurring in the Tibetan chronicle of Khotan, has caused trouble to Rockhill (Life of the Buddha, p. 236) and Sir Aurel Stein (Ancient Khotan, 161–2). Previously (Asia Major, ii, p. 258) I have suggested alternative translations "east of the river" and "of the eastern river". In view of the correspondence of the three phrases šel-chab-hog-ma, šel-chab-goṇ-ma, and šel-chab-dbus, the former rendering, but with the plural "rivers", seems preferable. The interpretation of "above" and "below" as equivalent to "east" and "west" is in accordance with some Eastern-Asian usages.

The name of the western river is known to have been Go-ma. If this meant "lower-river", in which eventuality the eastern may have been called *Go-ya, the case for the alternative rendering would be strong.

Concerning the parishes, streets, and personal names see below (pp. 50–63, 292–6). It is likely that the parishes belong respectively to the districts with which they are associated, namely Si-ro-ña to that west of the rivers, Has-go-ña to that east of the rivers, Bar-ma-ro-ña to the district between the two; and the street Ba-zo-ña will be in the actual town of Khotan. The term tshar "parish" will now occupy us.

B: The Parishes (tshar) and streets (sran)

The term tshar occurs in some fragmentary and hardly legible documents which usually seem to be lists of soldiers or officials stationed in particular places. Since one of the places mentioned, namely Dro-tir, has been previously ("The Language of Ancient Khotan" in Asia Major, vol. ii, p. 262) noted as occurring in the Tibetan chronicle of Khotan, where it is styled ljoṅs "district", it would seem that the latter term is a Tibetan rendering of tshar. That the word may denote a subdivision of a sde, or regiment, has been shown above (JRAS. 1927, p. 827); but even in that passage we have a yul-yig "district list", and in view of the territorial arrangement of the Tibetan armies it is likely that, as in the case of sde, so in that of tshar the local sense was the prius. The term seems to have been originally not Tibetan, but Khotani, as is evidenced by the fact that the persons named in connection with tshars are invariably designated Khotanis. Possibly the name of the oldest Khotan shrine Tsar-ma (see below, p. 63) may mean merely "lower parish", being short for Tsar-ma-hjo "temple of the lower parish", which in fact occurs. But ma may be merely a termination, as in other Tibeto-Burman languages.

2. M. Tāgh. a, iv, 0074 (wood, c. 19.5 × 3, cut away at left; hole for string at right; ll. 4 recto of clear, regular, cursive, dbu-can script—perhaps palimpsest—+ ll. 3 verso, a different document in a more cursive hand, rather faint).

The 'o-nal, the Khotan Hu-ten soldier, the Khotani Gi-chog, of Parish Ḥd zam-ña, requires five bre of barley belonging to Rgya (Chinaman?) Legs-khri; and the 'O-toñ Sgo-mo soldier, the Khotani Šan . . . , of Parish Ka-to-ži-ña, requires two bre of barley belonging to . . . Kva-tshe (cho?)."

Notes

1. 'o-nal, which occurs elsewhere (M.I. ii, 25 and 27; vi, 6; xiv, 58a; xxvii, 11), seems to be a military designation (JRAS. 1928, p. 564).

Li Ḥu-ten, "Khotan Ḥu-ten," denotes, no doubt, the city Ḥu-ten, to which the name always appertains, of the Li (Khotan) country.

Rgya Legs-khri: If this is a Chinaman (Rgya), he is here honoured with a Tibetan name.

2. 'O-toñ Sgo-mo is, no doubt, a variant of Ho-toñ Gyu-mo, concerning which place see infra (pp. 90 sqq.).

Notes

We have here evidently a schedule of certain selected persons belonging to particular regiments. Of such regiments a list will be supplied later; here it may suffice to note that some are found in several documents, e.g. the above-named Ḥgrom-pa regiment is mentioned also in M. Tâgh. a, iv, 0031, and a, v, 008. The G-yr-skaṇ regiment is very possibly, as we have suggested (in Sir Aurel Stein's Innermost Asia, p. 1085, for the Yar-sken-gi-sde), "the Yarkand regiment."

Glan-myi, tshugs-pon, ra-șaṇs, and g-yr-ło (?) are military designations (the last-named apparently) which will be considered later. For tshugs-pon the translation "sergeant" is merely a makeshift. The word tshugs occurs usually in connection with small numbers of soldiers, and often there is a tshugs-pon "sergeant" and his subordinate hog-pon "corporal", while sometimes we have a tshugs-pa "a member of a tshugs". The military connections exclude the dictionary meaning "caravansarai" for tshugs, and it might be convenient if tshugs were equivalent to phyugs "animal", so that the tshugs-pon would be an officer in charge of horses, camels, etc. But possibly tshugs may denote camping arrangements, so that a tshugs-pon would be a sort of minor "adjutant" or "quarter-master". Ra-șaṇs (sic) will be found infra, pp. 56, 77, and it recurs in M. Tāgh. a, iv, 00159, c, ii, 0017, and elsewhere (Tibetan chronicle, ll. 19 and 22 ra-sañ-rje).

It is natural to inquire as to the purpose of such lists, which must, as will appear, have been numerous. Plainly these are not regimental lists, but notes of soldiers belonging to different regiments, who were stationed, or living, in detached places. Probably they were on duty, employed in espionage or in other special tasks, one of which will have been to form "relays" (so-res) for conveyance of correspondence, a function of which we often hear. It is likely in fact that the word so "soldier", which in Tibetan means "keeper", "guard", "watchman", "spy", "emissary", originally denoted "one who goes", corresponding to the Sanskrit cara (used in the Kharoṣṭhī documents). In our documents we sometimes (e.g. M.T. a, ii, 0048) find the phrase so-rjed, which should mean "soldier-memorandum" (cf. rjed-tho "note-book", rjed-byañ "invoice", brjed-tho "memorandum"); and, as this phrase occurs on the verso of one of the lists (a, iv, 0074, p. 50 supra, a separate document), it is likely that it denotes precisely such a list.

4. M. Tāgh. b, i, 0095 (paper, fol. 36 in vol.; c. 28.5 × 8 cm.; ll. 5 verso of ordinary cursive dbu-can script; on the recto ll. 5 in a different hand, containing a complete letter on another subject).

Notes
Concerning the place-names ending in -rtse (Stag-rtse, Bye-ma-ḥdord-gyi-rtse), and concerning Ho-тоñ Gyu-mo, see infra (pp. 90 sqq., 251 sqq.). As regards the regiments see supra (p. 53).

The terms lo-nañ and phur-myi will recur infra (pp. 253, 258); sña-śur is found in M.T. a, iii, 0068, etc. Sro occurs in M. Tāgh. 0239 in a military connection, also M.I. vii (viii), 33, xiv, 41; but its precise meaning is not apparent.

Pełu-mar will recur below (pp. 276–8). The Parish Dro-tir, which will recur in the next document, is evidently the ljoṅs ("district") Dro-tir of the Tibetan chronicle of Khotan (Asia Major, ii, p. 262).

Myaï is, no doubt, a tribal name, since Myaï-ro occurs as a place-name. For other occurrences see JRAS. 1927, p. 823. Concerning Ta-gu see infra, p. 280.

Notes

This is an agreement, or legal decision, of a kind exemplified supra, JRAS. 1928, pp. 574–5, 593–4. In this case the gaps prevent our knowing what the Khotani was to pay for the soldier’s goods. On the other hand, the document furnishes an instance of civil, and not military, use of designation by parish.

. . . . la-ro-ña (0492).

In addition to these Sag-ti seems to occur in M. Tâgh. b, i, 0092 (No. 20 below) and in 0508.

The most characteristic feature of these names is the terminal syllable ſa, which appears in the great majority of them. This confirms the suggestion, previously (The Language of Ancient Khotan, pp. 259, 260; Festgabe Hermann Jacobi, pp. 49, 61–2) made, that it had a meaning similar to that of “Sanskrit bhūmi, sthāna, kṣetra, and the like”, or, we might add, the Teutonic ham, heim, etc. In a number of cases the two final syllables are ro-ña, which combination may have conveyed a combined meaning. For the no in Šir-no the explanation previously suggested (The Language of Ancient Khotan, p. 267) for the "little hill" Hgus-no may also be adduced.

The "streets" (srañ) mentioned are:—

Ba-žo-ña (b, i, 0048).
Byi-nom(chom ?)-na (a, i, 0031).
Ma-žo . . (a, vi, 0030).
No-ña (0492).

The general resemblance of these names of parishes and streets to those cited on pp. 264–6 of the article quoted will escape no one. It may be noted that in the bilingual document published in Hoernle's Manuscript Remains of Buddhist Literature (Oxford, 1916), pp. 402–3, we probably have a parish name of the same kind, Mar-śi-ko-ña.

C. Temples or Monasteries

"The Khotani Gos-de, of the Tshar-ma- ḫjo temple; the Khotani Šir-de, of the Tshar-ma- ḫjo temple; the Khotani Hir-bod, of the Hgum-tir temple."

Since the syllable ḫjo is often found terminating the names of Khotan shrines, the Tshar-ma- ḫjo is probably identical with the famous Tsar-ma foundation mentioned by Hiu-an-Tsang (Rockhill, Life of the Buddha, pp. 237–8), while the Hgum-tir caitya was almost equally famous (see Asia Major, vol. ii, pp. 262–3).

The Tsar-ma- ḫjo is named also on another wooden slip (M. Tāgh. 0180); also ? b, i, 0046.

This temple or monastery also is mentioned in the Tibetan chronicle (Asia Major, vol. ii, p. 266) and associated texts (Sir Asutosh Mookerjee ... Jubilee Volumes, iii, p. 31).

18. M. Tāgh. a, vi, 0023 (wood; c. 11.5 × 2 cm.; complete; ll. 2 recto of ordinary, cursive dbu-can script, l. 1 verso in a larger hand, more formal, a writing exercise).

Žo-da may, or may not, be a personal name; if not, it is perhaps an official designation.

So-ma-ña Be-de-jo: This is, probably, the famous So-ma-ña or Sum-ña vihāra, the So-mo-je of Hiuan-Tsang, concerning which see Ancient Khotan, pp. 194 n., 223–5.

It seems, therefore, that the documents name several of the most famous religious establishments in Khotan, confirming the literary records and supplying, where required, a chronological terminus ad quem.

D. The Citadel of Khotan

The actual fortified citadel of Khotan (sku-mkhar), which is several times mentioned in the Tibetan chronicle (Ancient Khotan, p. 583), is once named in the documents.

Notes

1. A 2: brnañs-gcho: Perhaps for ṇtsho “company employed”, with tsho as in so-tsho (p. 267 infra), mkhar-tsho (c. i, 001, etc.), etc., and brnans = bsnan in JRAS. 1928, pp. 556, 559. Gsogs may indicate the “collective” pay.

B. dgra-zun: This seems to be for dgra-zon “on the watch”.

D. khram: Here the stick itself is the khram “inventory” (concerning the word see supra, JRAS. 1928, pp. 69-70), as is indeed indicated by the notches on it. The word recurs below, p. 81. The dictionaries also give ŋag (or ŋa-ga)-khram with the sense of “notch” or “indenture”.

under their control. That period certainly, as Sir Aurel Stein has shown (Serindia, pp. 1287–91) on the basis of Chinese coins and documents, covered the last part of the eighth century A.D. To this time, therefore, belong the Tibetan documents which we have examined. They testify, as we have seen, to a constant correspondence with the city Khotan (Hu-ten), a control of its neighbourhood, and an active intercourse with Tibetan soldiers in other parts of Chinese Turkestan and naturally also with Tibet proper.

Notes

This document is distinguished from most of the others by its writing, which is somewhat calligraphic, and, to a certain extent, by its phraseology. Thus it uses in ll. 2 and 6 the word gdags "transparent", or "attached", which in the other documents does not seem to occur, and the polite word *mched" brother" or "friend" is employed with reference to the distinguished officials who are addressed. Also the letter was corrected in the course of being put on paper.

Before the writer's name is written a sign which is clearly a monogram on the lines of the Phags-pa writing and the Dalai Lama's seal, but simpler and, of course, very much older (see the plate): it can plainly be read as rgyal-po "king". The king's name is Htran, followed probably by the expression ced-po "great", written in a compendious form, an expedient exemplified in the documents in the case of other phrases and very habitual in later Tibetan writings.¹

Now it happens that in a Tibetan letter² from an emissary of a Khotan king the Lion (Señ-ge) king is named Mun-dmag-trañ, in which phrase the syllables Mun-dmag, which occur elsewhere, denote some kind of troops. The last syllable is the name which appears in our document. Professor Konow

Letter from the Khotan King Ḥtran-ched-po (see pp. 66–71).
has suggested that the king must be the Vijaya-bohan-chen-po of the Khotan Chronicle (see Ancient Khotan, p. 582), and the Viśa-Vāham of a document published by Dr. Hoernle in the Journal of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, 1901, Extra Number, i, pp. 29 sqq., and discussed by Professor Konow in the JRAS. 1914, pp. 339 sqq., and Ostasiatische Zeitschrift, viii, pp. 223 sqq.

This identification is reinforced by the addition of the phrase ced-po (if correctly read) in our document, a phrase appended to the name of no other Khotan king. Since Ḥtran is a good Tibetan equivalent (from Ḥdren "draw", "lead," as Professor Konow suggests) for the Sanskrit vāhana, it remains a question whether we yet have the king’s name in its native form; the Sanskrit equivalent of Mun-dmag-trañ will, as Professor Konow has suggested, be -senā-vāhana.

It is curious to note that in the emissary’s letter mched is used as in our present document. This latter is of great importance, since it definitely proves that Vijaya-bohan-chen-po belonged to the latter half of the eighth century A.D.; it gives us a fixed point in the chronology of the Khotan kings.

Furthermore, it sheds a clear light upon the position of the Khotan king in relation to the Tibetan officers occupying the station of Śin-śan. It refers plainly to complaints of robberies committed, no doubt, by Khotanī people upon Tibetan goods and persons in transit. The king explains that he is taking steps to investigate and bring the offenders to justice, and he promises prompt attention to minor offences of like kind in the future. He was therefore, as was only natural, a ruler in no position to deny satisfaction to the Tibetans dominating his country.

1. 3. Hel-ge and Nag: See infra, pp. 270, 272. It will be seen that elsewhere also Nag is associated with robberies.

rje-blas: This title, which has occurred before (JRAS. 1927, p. 73, ll. 6, 9, etc.), seems to be applied to persons of great eminence in civil life or religion. It is the expression rendered as a proper name by Colonel Waddell (JRAS. 1910, pp. 1252) in its occurrence in Lhasa inscriptions.

1. 4. stag-sum: The Tibetan authorities.

1. 5. rgyal-ta: This is evidently = rgyal in the sense of "fine" or "forfeit". The word has also the sense of phala "fruit", which suggests that the bras-bu "fruit" here may not be literal, but form part of a phrase or denote "interest"; but that is not certain, and Khotan was famous for its fruits.

In any case, as we may note, this use of the word rgyal clearly explains the bhrgya-la which caused us difficulty supra, JRAS. 1928, p. 578. It recurs M.T. 0264, b, i, 0099.

1. 7. Sag-ti-hi-tshar: This "parish" has a name on the lines of Dro-tir, Hgum-tir, and Sañ-tir, noted above; it is mentioned again in M. Tāgh. 0508 (paper).

1. 8. The endorsement seems to be a note by an official to the effect that the king’s gift has been dispatched. The reading is not clear; but ha-lo would mean "hollyhock" and yu-thi "jasmine".

Mdo-lo: This district has hitherto been known only from mention in the Tibetan chronicle of Khotan (see Ancient Khotan, p. 583), which seems to indicate a territory in the direction of Polu. See infra, pp. 271–2.

1. B 1. Sluṇs-pon: On the Sluṇs, see JRAS. 1927, p. 820, where, as here, they seem to be different from ordinary soldiers.

žal-mchu: "complaint" (see supra, JRAS. 1928, pp. 578, 592–4, and p. 291 infra).

1. B 3. phas: = pha-las "from beyond".

1. B 6. tshur: "hither", i.e. "to me".

1. B 7. Staṅs-dgyal: Staṅs = "style", "fashion". The phrase is evidently a politeness addressed to persons of high rank; it recurs in M.I. i, 23, M. Tagh. b, i, 0098, b (staṅs-dbyald), 0503 (staṅs-byal) and 0436, published in Innermost Asia, p. 1088 (staṅs-bsal-byā) c, ii, 0064 (gstaṅs-dbyal).

1. B 8. gden-pho-lod: No doubt, the endorsement of the king's secretary, or even the king himself after dictating the document.

F. Amacas,¹ a "nan-rje-po" and a "dmag-pon"

The title a-mo-che, granted by the Chinese governments to kings of Khotan and other states in Chinese Turkestan, seems to have been first discussed by Chavannes in his Documents sur les Tou-kiue occidentaux, pp. 207–8. It was again discussed by Sir Aurel Stein in Ancient Khotan, pp. 66, 176, 256, and by Chavannes at p. 523. In the same work (pp. 582–3) I gave instances of Chinese a-ma-cas in Khotan history, and subsequently (JRAS. 1927, pp. 121–2) I showed that the title had also at a late date been borne by rulers in the Ladakh region. Prof. Sylvain Lévi seems to have been the first (1915, J.A. xi, v, p. 191) to derive the term from the Sanskrit amātya.

It seems worth while to quote the instances of the use of the title in our documents. We have the following:—

The term tshan seems to have been an honorific (properly a plural), appended to the names of learned or distinguished persons: see infra, p. 75, and Innermost Asia, p. 1084. It is appended to the word ban-de in a, iii, 0062, and it is similarly employed in the document edited in Hoernle’s Manuscript Remains, pp. 402–3.

24. M. Tāgh. i, 0021 (wood; c. 8.5 x 1 x 1 cm.; complete; nine notches; l. 1 of ordinary cursive dbu-can script, smudged).

¹ The occurrence of this title was noted by me, JRAS. 1927, pp. 121–3, with citation of Nos. 23–5 below. The latter, with Nos. 27 and 29, and also a new document from Turfan have now been discussed in a recent paper (Königsnamen von Khotan (A-ma-ca) . . . SPAW., pp. 671–6, issued Jan. 1929) by Professor A. H. Francke. I am glad to see that Professor Francke, who originally had understood the syllables a-ma-ca, am-cha, where he had read them, differently, now accepts the reference to the officials called amacas. 1. B 1. Ho-ni is the name of a place (infra, pp. 270–1).
2. A 1. Yul-gzigs: The name occurs in its literal denotation "Local Surveyor" in M.I. xiv, 1 (Innermost Asia, p. 1084). In such cases as the present we cannot be certain whether it is so used or is a proper name (cf. English Smith, etc., and the case of Rmaṅ-rogs, p. 290, infra), as in a, iii, 0070.

will be seen below (except as concerns the Turfan document, in which, I may remark, the phrase stag-sras-dgyes-gyi-rtse is a place-name; see infra, pp. 264–5). That any of the persons named are royal I am far from believing.

Notes

1. B. Sna-bo: Probably the place mentioned in the Tibetan chronicle, l. 12, as being in Ḥon (rather distant from Khotan!).

1. A. tshand: See supra, p. 72. The name Lha-zuñ-gre is a hybrid, the first two syllables Lha-zuñ, being Tibetan and occurring in M.I. ii, 20b, M.T. a, iii, 0070. It is perhaps no accident that in four of these texts there is reference to gifts of provisions or repasts and so on to the Amacas named, or that they share with the ban-de (= Nepalese bandya, Chinese bonze) the designation tshan. It is probable that, at least during the Tibetan domination, they enjoyed civil dignity and esteem rather than power, unless indeed they functioned as judges in the grwa-tus (= pariṣad, see supra, JRAS. 1928, p. 567).

Of other Khotan dignitaries we do not hear. But it might be opportune to consider the Tibetan nañ-rje-pos, jo-cos, zañ-blons, etc., with a view to any chronological inferences that might arise. It might be thought that with the meagre resources of Tibetan nomenclature it would be a difficult matter to establish identifications. The difficulty, indeed, exists; but it is not due to that cause: such good use is made of the resources that in the documents the same names rarely recur. The subject is, however, somewhat complicated, and the names are very numerous: there being no doubt as to the general period to which the Mazar-Tagh documents relate, it will be best to reserve the designations of the Tibetan officials for a separate, and wider, consideration.
We may, however, take note of the presence of one dmag-pon, or General, in the city of Khotan and of the conduct of one nañ-rje-po.

Notes

This curious document presents considerable difficulties in translation. Not only is the subject-matter recto one likely to lead to obscure expressions, but it is also not quite clear from the ductus that the words in the vertical line really follow l. 5: the latter is, however, from the sense highly probable. We have in any case an "anonymous letter" to an official, whether from some one who signs as "the city" or not, and the charges which it lays against the Home-Minister are correspondingly serious. He is no doubt residing in Khotan, and the letter is written to an official there.

The verso is probably an inquiry made on behalf of the addressee of the recto, in which case it shows a good official discretion. Alternately the recto might be the reply to the inquiry verso: but this is in itself less probable, and, further, the letter is not addressed to the writer of the verso. The letter is, no doubt, sent from Khotan to Śiṅ-śan.

[A] ma-rgyon-smyon-ba: By "mother" is perhaps meant "[other people's] wives"; similarly as concerns "sisters".

śi-hbyis-paḥ: The expression "as to death, a child" may denote irresponsible killing. Or is it "a child of death"?

mdah-tshags-pa: mdah-lpags means "gourd" and tshags = "sieve"; perhaps this is a "portmanteau" expression.

rtol-po-che-chuñ: I have rendered this as meaning "whoever appears (comes in his way), great or small".

[B] slan-chad: "For the rest"; or "in future"?

bkah-mchid: "Talk" or "news": so pp. 256–7 infra.

II. Śiṅ-śan

Śiṅ-śan occurs as a place-name in over thirty documents from Mazār-Tāgh, a place on the Khotan river, about 100 miles north of Khotan, where Sir Aurel Stein discovered and excavated a Tibetan fort and other ruins. The name is hardly to be found in documents from other places, and I have already given expression (in Sir A. Stein's Innermost Asia, p. 1086) to the view that Śiṅ-śan was the proper name of the settlement at Mazār-Tāgh itself. That the fact is so appears also from the circumstance that many of the documents are letters apparently addressed to Śiṅ-śan; and this impression will be enhanced by a perusal of those which we will proceed to consider.
The name Šiṅ-šan, which appears to mean "Wood-mountain" (Chinese shan, as in Pha-šan, etc.), can never have been appropriate to the low barren hill on which rose the Tibetan fort at Mazār-Tāgh. It is perhaps, therefore, a corruption of some native name, and we may ask whether it is possibly the Šen-za of the Gősringa-Vyākarana, denoting "the northern district Šen-za, protected by an image Šen-za, which would arise from the nether world" (Ancient Khotan, p. 584).

Since the above lines were written a definite confirmation of this suggestion has come to light. The Brāhmi endorsement of the document No. 28, p. 74 supra, addressed to a chief in command at Šiṅ-šan, has been read by Professor Sten Konow, who has kindly furnished me with the following possible translation:

"On the hill which (or who) is Ysaināgotra, to him now to be given."

It is probable that the writer has by Ysaināgotra rendered into his Iranian speech the native name Šen-za; and perhaps he had some justification, since, as we have seen (JRAS. 1928, p. 832), the syllable za, whether actually Iranian (Sogdian?) or not, was employed in Chinese Turkestan with precisely the sense of gotra: thus Šen-za = Ysainā (i.e. Šenā)-gotra. Moreover, by adding the word "hill" (garā) he confirms our understanding of the second syllable in Šiṅ-šan as the Chinese shan, a "hill". The Tibetan Šiṅ-šan represents, therefore, an accommodation to their speech of *Šen-(za-)šan, a good instance of those etymologizing tendencies which seem to have specially influenced the folk-lore of Khotan (see infra, p. 259, and Asia Major, ii, pp. 258-9, 262-3).

If the message token does not arrive in time, or if any offend by going astray, they are to be punished according to law. From Ḥu-ten, date. . . .”

Notes

1. 1. rtsis: Mentions of the “censuses” or “reckonings”, which perhaps related to both persons and properties, are not infrequent in the Tibetan chronicle (e.g. ll. 8, 22, 75, etc.) or in the documents. We have had before (JRAS. 1927, p. 81; 1928, p. 573) a rtsis-mgo "head, or total, of census", and this also recurs in M.I. xxviii, 2, and in that chronicle (l. 52).

The Gośrīṇga-vyākarana has (fol. 349b, 7) yul-gyi-rtsis-mgo "the country's census-total".

1. A 2. ko-ches-pa := go-ches-pa "of great consideration"?
1. B 1. dam-du: "At the fixed time" or "promptly", i.e. without loss of time at the relays. The phrase is found in M.T. a, v, 007, with myel-tse-dgu, "9 watches," and with Ňin-tshod mtshan-tshod "day-time or night-time" in M.T. 0334 and c, iii, 0025 (infra, pp. 83, 85, 268), and we had dam-zag-tu "on a fixed day" in JRAS. 1927, pp. 69, 838, 844, and Ňin-dam-du is found in M. Tāgh. c, iii, 0034 below.

34. M. Tāgh. a, iii, 001 (wood; 15 × 2 cm.; complete; hole for string at right; ll. 2 recto + ll. 2 verso of ordinary dbu-can script, rather faint).

Note

The expression par-ša-ris-ma is of unknown meaning; it recurs twice, in the form par-sa-re-śi-ma, in another wooden document (M. Tāgh. a, vi, 0056).

35. M. Tāgh. c, iii, 0034 (wood; 17 × 2.5 cm.; complete, but cut away at left; hole for string at right; ll. 3 recto + ll. 2 verso of ordinary dbu-can script, rather, in B, l. 2, very, faint).
By Spe-stan and Mdo-brtsan, after taking counsel, dispatched from Hu-then on the twenty-second day of the last summer month of the Hare year for conveyance to reach Sin-san. This soldier-missive is to be taken immediately on the fixed day, and delivered on a witnessed (dpan) date. In case of lateness or wandering astray and not providing convoy for the missive severe punishment is to be imposed.

Notes

1. A 1. Sin-san-phar-du: This might perhaps be rendered “to beyond Sin-san”.

1. A 3. so-hphar: The phrase recurs M.T. b, ii, 0052. Possibly it means “a soldier-pass”.

ūn-dam-du-zuṅ-la: See supra, p. 82.

1. B 2. skyel-bskyal: This is the full phrase for “providing mountain convoy”; ri-skyel recurs infra, pp. 254, 263, also in other documents, e.g. a, ii, 0085, Khad. 032.

36. M. Tāgh. a, iii, 0016 (wood; 23 × 1.5 × 0.5 cm.; complete; ll. 2 recto + 1 on side + 2 verso of ordinary cursive dbu-can script, verso rather faint).

If there is none in the Dru-gu cor, pray send this tablet to Śiṅ-śan."

Notes

The missive duly reached Śiṅ-śan, where it was unearthed by Sir Aurel Stein.

Concerning Ho-ton Gyu-mo and Glin-riṅ see below (pp. 90 sqq., 286–8). It will be observed that the former was clearly on the route from Glin-riṅs, which was in Tibet, to Śiṅ-śan, and it would appear to be connected with the Dru-gu cor, which was mentioned supra (JRAS. 1927, p. 68) and will be the subject of further observations later.

1. A 2. ri-zug occurs frequently (see pp. 280–1 infra).
1. C 2. byaṅ-bu “little tablet” evidently denotes the wooden tablet itself; cf. phrin-byaṅ, so-byāṅ “soldier-tablet” (M.I. xiv, 0019, 005, 126, 134), p. 284 infra, and JRAS. 1927, p. 826; infra, p. 87. We have also so-ris(res)-byaṅ “soldier-relay-tablet” in M. Tāgh. a, ii, 0017.

37. M. Tāgh. c, iii, 0025 (wooden stick, four-sided, rather curved; c. 19.5 × 1 × 1 cm.; l. 1 on each face, ordinary cursive dbu-can script).

Notes

A. Par-bañ: Concerning this place see infra, pp. 274–6. Drugu-hjor: See supra, p. 56.
B. hpar-ma: See supra, JRAS. 1928, p. 581.

These two seem to belong together, and may be translated in one context, a proceeding which in any case seems harmless.

[005] "We humble persons, Rdze-sa(mi) (?), being sent out upon espionage, professing to be soldiers (so-hdzu ?), of (the country) down to Šiñ-šan, have come in a long course (rgun = rgyun ?) from the top of the Žugs-šam. Not even travelling clothes are available. By the time of our arrival we have accomplished a task of one year less (?) si'd) two months. While on our return—

[007] "We beg (htsal ?) to be provided in ample or small quantity (bam ?) with the rations which should have been sent. This message tablet [should be forwarded] quickly by the soldiers as far up as Cañ-lañ-tse to Šiñ-šan."

Notes

005, A 2. Žugs-šam-gyi-ltoňs : This phrase, which recurs p. 258 below, is, no doubt, the same as the Žugs-dams of the Khotan chronicle, on whichever side may lie the easy confusion of ŋ and d (צ and צ). From the passage quoted in Asia Major, ii, pp. 258-9, it is clear that the name belonged to some elevated plain near Tola in Me-skar; and, since the district of Me-skar lay between Khotan and Tshal-byi, which latter included Cer-chen and its hinterland (JRAS. 1928, pp. 557, 561), we must look for Me-skar and Tola, with its Žugs-dam (or ŋam), somewhere in the mountains between Polu and Cer-chen.

B 2. si'd: Perhaps we should read šin, "given two months, a year"; in M. Tāgh. a, v, 007, we have ŋin-žiñ "in the day-time".

007. A. htsal: If correctly read, this seems to be an equivalent of htshal, as not infrequently.

B. hpbrin-byañ: “Message-tablet”; see supra, p. 84.

“Ticket of work-levy of soldier in the lesser fort (town) of Śiñ-śan.”

Note

1. 1. mkhar-bu: The “lesser fort” or town at Śiñ-śan is perhaps named in antithesis to the larger fort on the hill.

42. M. Tāgh. a, iii, 0065 (paper, fol. 13 of vol.; c. 27.5 × 12 cm.; a fragment; ll. 8 of ordinary, rather large, dbu-can writing).

Notes

1. 1. Khri-ma-lod: This name being, like most others ending in -lod, feminine—it occurs, in fact, in the Tibetan chronicle as the name of a princess—it is probable that the gap in the document contained the statement that the lady in question was the wife or mother of the Śiṅ-śan rtse-rje “chief in command” and nañ-rje-po “Home Minister”.

1. 2. . . . ra-myi-ra: “In . . . place or men’s place.”

1. 6. spyan-zigs: “A present,” as on p. 258 infra. The present is, no doubt, the customary upāyana.

Notes

1. 2. ltai-sags: Apparently equivalent to ltai-sogs of M.I. xxviii, 002, 1. 6 (= JRAS. 1928, p. 582): or should we so read? The sense is "bale-man" or "bale-collector". The person G-yu-brtsan was in the previous document (b, i, 0097) *stsaṅ-hdren" "conveyor of crop". *Ltaṅ-rogs" = "bale-man".

From these references to Šiṅ-šan it is clear that the place must have been the military headquarters of the whole Khotan region. Naturally it was in constant communication with the city of Khotan itself and other places in the area. But the documents suffice to show that it was a centre of communications from regions further afield, from Tibet and from the more easterly parts of Chinese Turkestan, and was a terminal point of Tibetan occupation in the west.

The place possessed the fort excavated by Sir Aurel Stein and also, apparently, a minor fort or town (mKhar-bu). It had a *rtse-rje" head official", who was a *naṅ-rje-po" Home Minister". It controlled, as we shall see, the supplies of numerous military posts, and also dominated the city of Khotan, which remained, however, under the administration of its native king.

III. Gyu-mo, Ho-toṅ Gyu-mo, Ho-se Gyu-mo

For already cited references to a place named Ho-toṅ Gyu-mo, with variants 'O-toṅ Sgo-mo and Ho-toṅ Gyu-mo, see supra, pp. 51, 55.

From one of those references it appears, as we have seen, that the place lay between Gliṅ-riṅs, in Tibet, and Šiṅ-šan, or Mazār-Tāgh. This serves to exclude any identification with either Ak-su, which had also a Chinese name Ku-mo (see Sir Aurel Stein's Innermost Asia, p. 835), or the oasis of Guma, between Khotan and Karghalik. There remain two possibilities, namely, (1) Cer-cen, which was also during a long period known as Tsü-mo or Chü-mo (Serindia, p. 297), and (2) a place on the Cer-cen river recorded with the name Kiumo in a (large) map in the Atlas accompanying the Mission Scientifique dans la Haute Asie of Dutreuil de Rhins, but otherwise apparently not known. We may dwell briefly upon the matter.

In the name Ho-toñ Gyu-mo it seems likely that the phrase Ho-toñ is Chinese and means “east of the river”. The likelihood is fortified by the fact that the two remaining syllables Gyu-mo are separately used (see infra, p. 281) for the same, or an adjacent, place; and it becomes a certainty in case the reading Ho-se Gyu-mo in pp. 268–9 is correct, since that would correspondingly denote a Gyu-mo “west of the river”; and it would also become probable that the Ho-se which we have previously encountered (JRAS. 1928, pp. 577–8) refers not to a remote Ho-se in China, but to this very place in the Nob region. If Kiumo really existed on the Cer-cen river, it would very probably be the place indicated, and it would mark the point where, as we know (Sir Aurel Stein, Serindia, 298–9, 1331), the route from Mirān (little Nob) to Khotan passed north of the Cer-cen river. If not, then the probabilities are in favour of Cer-cen.

It is curious that, while the Mirān documents never refer to Khotan or Śīn-śan, those from Mazār-Tāgh are equally silent concerning Nob, Cer-cen, and Ka-dag, and this despite the large numbers (several hundreds) in both cases and despite the fact that the officers in Khotan and Mazār-Tāgh at least were in regular communication with Tibet. This demands a general explanation, which may partly be one of date and partly lie in the circumstance that the regards of the Tibetans in Mirān were turned chiefly in the eastern direction, towards Śa-cu. The matter may be reconsidered later; but it is at any rate implied that the regular communications between Mazâr-Tâgh and Tibet passed at the period in question by way either of Polu (said to be now impassable for baggage animals) or by the valley of the Cer-cen river.

Notes

Concerning the places with names ending in rtse, viz. 'An-tse, Bye-ri-snaṅ-daṅ-rtse, Jaṅ-laṅ-rtse, Mdoṅ-rtse, Ḥphrul-gyi-rtse, Stag-ḥdus-kyi-rtse, Stag-sgugs-kyi-rtse, Stag-sras-kyi-rtse, see below (pp. 251 sqq.), where several of them recur. Concerning Dgra-byun(-gi-rtse ?), Ḥbu-ṣaṅ, Ḥjag-ma-gu, Rtse--u-cag, see pp. 269-70, 282 infra.

The discrimination of the personal names is not in all cases certain; but for the most part we have sufficient analogies among those occurring in other documents. In l. 6 the expression rhvul-po (rhul-po) has been taken as a prefix (class or clan name) on the ground of its form (cf. Khyuṅ-po, noticed above, JRAS. 1927 p. 812) and of its occurrence in M.T. 0509, 0510.

It may be noted that in a case like the present, where a rather well-written official document shows on the reverse a private letter, especially if the latter is coarsely inscribed, the priority of the former is indubitable.
