The National Archives of India, under the programme of compiling suitable finding aids to its rich collection of cartographic records, has brought out Catalogue of Historical Maps of the Survey of India (1700-1900) in 1975; Catalogue of MRIO Miscellaneous Maps of the Survey of India in 1982; Catalogue of Forest Maps of the Survey of India in 1984; Catalogue of Printed and Published Maps in 1986 and Catalogue of Memoirs of the Survey of India (1773-1866) in 1989. The present Catalogue of Revenue Maps of the Survey of India (1871-1888) Volume-I is the sixth in the series.

Covering the period from 1871 to 1888, this Catalogue contains 1145 revenue maps of such districts of the former Bombay Presidency that now form part of the present Maharashtra and Karnataka States. These revenue maps are large scale topographical maps showing detailed survey of boundaries and plans of villages, taluks, towns, cities and cantonments.

The work of compilation was done by Sarvashree S.R. Batheja, Archivist and Zile Singh, Assistant Archivist under the supervision of Shri S.N. Sharma, Deputy Director of Archives, who has now retired. Shri Bhagat Singh made the typescript ready.

It is hoped that this Catalogue will be found useful by the scholars/researchers interested in cartographic records.

INTRODUCTION

Land survey and mapping in modern India began at the initiative of Robert Clive in 1763, when Major Rennell was appointed as the Surveyor General. Though detailed topographical survey was started by Colonel Colin Mackenzie, yet the work of mapping India on scientific lines through the Great Trigonometrical Survey began when Major William Lambton started measurement of the Madras base line on 10 April, 1802.

In 1881, office of the Surveyor General was transferred from Military Department to Public Department to facilitate supervision and conduct of revenue survey. This work, however, gained momentum under Regulation VII of 1822. This was conducted in most of the districts of the North West Provinces between 1822 to 1842, districts around Sagar and Narbada region in 1842 and Ganjam and Orissa from 1839 to 1842. Subsequently, the work of surveying areas around Sylhet and Cachar was taken up. In Bombay Presidency proper survey work was undertaken after 1847.

Revenue survey assumed much importance during the Surveyor Generalship of Sir Andrew Waugh (1843-51), and Colonel Thuillier was appointed as Superintendent for Revenue Survey work in 1847. But it received much impetus when he himself became the Surveyor

General in 1861. During his stewardship detailed revenue survey work was pursued in Assam, Bengal, Oudh, Central Provinces, Bombay, Sind and Burma. In January, 1878, the three branches of Survey Department—Great Trigonometrical, Topographical and Revenue, which had been functioning separately, were amalgamated into a single body and it was designated as Survey of India.

Revenue survey work was, however, transferred to the respective Provincial Governments in 1905. Henceforth, Survey of India concentrated on topographical survey.

The Survey of India has transferred to this Department about 25,000 maps of Revenue series, under the head 'Original Cantonment Plans (Revenue)', and they pertain to former Presidencies of Bombay and Bengal and the Provinces of Punjab, United Provinces, and Central Provinces of the then British India. These maps show boundaries and plans of villages, taluks, towns, cities and cantonments and cover the period from 1822-1927.

The present volume is the first in the series and it contains 1145 revenue maps of Ahmadnagar, Alibag, Kolhapur, Nashik, Osmanabad, Pune, Bijapur, Gulbarga and Karwar districts of the former Bombay Presidency and are for the years 1871-1888.

All the maps have been catalogued district wise alphabetically, and grouped under the Presidency/Province to which it had belonged. Entries of the maps have been made upto district level only. Each entry carries the current spellings, though in the text old regional names/spellings used in the maps have been retained. An entry in the catalogue constitutes the exact title of the map, the scale, the name of the surveyor and the year of the survey, etc. Reference number has been assigned to each map to facilitate its consultation by scholars and those interested in consulting these maps.
