INTRODUCTION

"Of my total outlay for stamps I use an average seven percent for the purchase of philatelic literature - a quota which contains more profit than one would imagine"

PHILIPPE BARON LA RENOTIÉRE DE FERRARI (1858-1917)

The most favourable response to my 'Nepal Philatelic Bibliography' encouraged me to devote a similar booklet to that other fascinating Himalayan land, Tibet.

Apart from various technical improvements, this second bibliography contains one very important innovation, i.e. the addition of a numismatic section, compiled by Dr. Karl Gabrisch, an engaged student and collector of Tibetan coins and paper money. Also included is a chapter on ink and wax seals, a sideline that has always been most popular with philatelists.

The present volume lists over 500 books, articles and catalogues, published throughout the world (in no less than ten different languages!). A critical bibliography of this order should not only be regarded as a complete record of the existing literature, but it should also help in bringing collectors and students into closer contact with the histories of philatelic and numismatic research from the very beginning through to the present days.

Each entry shows full bibliographic details and is followed by a brief comment so as to convey a general idea and summary evaluation of its contents. The dates of the various publications, the subjects treated, the numbers of pages involved as well as a special index are all supplementary indicators that should help the reader in selecting the titles best suited to his individual requirements and interests.

I sincerely wish to thank the following philatelists who have supplied me with numerous articles and/or useful bibliographic information: Derek H. Bates, Richard E. Clever, Peter Collins, Pierre Couvreur, Kurt H. Dahnke, Frederic C.J. de Ridder, Lester A. Michel, James Negus, Lionel R.F. Prescott, John A. Randall, Armand E. Singer, Roger D. Skinner, H.S. Whittaker and the Librarian of the Munich Philatelic Library.

On the numismatic side. Dr. Gabrisch wishes to add his thanks to Nicholas G. Rhodes, Anno A. Remmelts and Bhupendra N. Shrestha.

Our special thanks go to George Alevizos, whose encouragement, full support and keen interest in research has made this publication possible.

1 TRANGKA STAMP OF THE 1933 ISSUE

- 1 ADGEY-EDGAR, W.H., 'A Rare Tibetan Campaign Cover'
  (The Stamp Magazine, Vol.17, pp.232, 237; Jan. 1951)
  The author records and illustrates an interesting Field P.O. cover, without adhesives and endorsed 'stamps not obtainable', from the Younghusband Military Expedition.
- 2 ADGEY-EDGAR, W.H., '1933 Issue of Tibet'
  (The Stamp Magazine, Vol.20, pp.159-161, 165; Dec. 1953)
  This interesting article deals with the techniques of cutting the individual clichés of the 1933 issue. Opposing Haverbeck's 'Master Die' theory, the author introduces his own theory of a 'Master Outline' process of transferring the stamp design to the cliché blocks.
- 3 ANON., 'The First Issue of Thibet!'
  (The London Philatelist, Vol.14, pp.175-176; July 1905)

  A somewhat confusing newsitem regarding the LAHSSA datestamp used during the Younghusband Expedition.
- 4 ANON., 'The Chinese Post Office'
  (The Times, 30 May 1911)
  A short contemporary account of the establishment and development of the Chinese Imperial Post Office, with interesting notes on the situation in Tibet.
- 5 ANON., 'Postage Stamps for the Forbidden City; The Proposed New Stamps of the Dalai Lama' (The Stamp Lover, Vol.5, p.103; c.Oct.1912)

  A very early record and illustration of the rare Dalai Lama proof sheet of the first native issue, exhibited in London, in October 1912, prior to the release of the issued stamps.
- 6 ANON., 'Tibet'
  (Deutsche Briefmarken-Zeitung, Vol.23, pp.62, 195-196; Vol.24, pp.79-80, 84; 1912-1913)
  In German. Four early articles dealing mainly with the 1912 issue and general postal history of Tibet.
- 7 ANON., 'Mails in Tibet' (Philatelic Magazine, Vol.37, No.11, p.401; May 1936) A rather utopic newsitem on a proposed air link between Lhasa and the outside world, as part of a modern postal system expected to be installed in 1937!
- 8 ANON., 'Tibet ein wenig bekanntes Markenland' (Sammler-Express, No.21, p.331; 1951)
  A general introduction to Tibet's postal history.

10 ANON., 'The Present Postal Situation in Tibet'

- 9 ANON., 'Secrets on the Roof of the World'
  (Philatelic Magazine, Vol.60, pp.643-644; Aug. 1952)

  A general introduction to Tibetan postal history, with emphasis on the historic background
- A general introduction to Tibetan postal history, with emphasis on the historic background.
- (China Section Bulletin, Vol.1; Nov.1953)

  A brief note on the introduction, on 1st July 1953, of Chinese stamps in Tibet.
- 11 ANON., 'Rural Postal Services in Tibet' (Peking Review, No.18; 2 May 1975. Reprinted in Journal of Chinese Philately, Vol.23, p.9; Oct. 1975)
- Interesting remarks on mail distribution in rural areas, in 1974.
- 12 ARDIFF, V.L., 'Tibet: Its Postal History' (Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News, Vol.48, No.32; Aug. 1934. Reprinted in Stamp Collecting, Vol.42, pp.487, 490; Aug. 1934)

  A brief sketch of Tibet's postal history.

- 13 ARDIFF, V.L., 'Tibetan Postal Affairs' (Weekly Philatelic Gossip, Vol.32, pp.149-151, 178, cont.; Apr. 1936)
- This is a comprehensive, accurate and well-written account of the postal history of Tibet. It
- is one of the earliest serious studies on the subject. With some illustrations.
- 14 ARMSTRONG, D.B., 'Turbulent Thibet Viewed from a Philatelic Standpoint' (The Postage Stamp, Vol.6, No.21, pp.223-224; Aug. 1910) The author describes Tibet's postal arrangements on the eve of the takeover by the Imperial Chi-
- nese Post Office. A Younghusband Expedition cover is illustrated. 15 ARMSTRONG, D.B., 'Tibet'
- (Ewen's Weekly Stamp News, Vol.22, p.3193; Mar. 1913) The author gives a brief account of the 1912 issue.
- 16 BEACH, B., 'Forgeries of the 1914 Issue of Tibet' (Journal of Chinese Philately, Vol.5, p.72; Mar. 1958)
- The first record of the 8 trangka forgery, printed in red and blue, respectively. With illustrations.
- 17 BECKSTADT, A., 'Filatelistische Kostproben' (Berner Briefmarken-Zeitung, Vol.38, pp.2-4; 1946) An interesting account of the findings of a German scientific expedition to Tibet, during 1938/ 1939. Led by Dr. Schäfer, the party collected various philatelic items, including some 4 trangkas of the second issue. The article contains interesting notes on mail transport.
- 18 BECKSTADT, A., 'Geheimnis Tibet' (Die Sammler-Lupe, Vol.4, pp.206-208; 1949) The author gives important details on the British-Indian and Tibetan courier systems along the postal route between Lhasa and Darjeeling. The article includes a map of this route as well as most interesting photographs of post runners and of the actual exchange of mails.
- (Welt-Ring, No.9, p.23; 1949. Reprinted as 'Die blaue Mauritius des Fernen Ostens' in Mergentheimer Sammler-Post, p.157; 1949) Brief notes on the rare 4 trangka stamp of the second issue.
  - 20 BERNHARDT, E., 'Die Verwendung indischer Marken in Tibet' (Schweizer Briefmarken-Zeitung, Vol.82, No.10, pp.377-381; Oct. 1969) An account of the British-Indian period. The interesting illustrations include two covers from the Tibetan Frontier Commission of 1903.
  - 21 BINDER, A., 'Mount Everest and Philately' (Weekly Philatelic Gossip, Vol.60, pp.174-175; Apr. 1955)

Shigatse is illustrated.

- This is a blatant case of plagiarism (of Beckstädt's article of 1949), lacking the original's fine illustrations. 155 REINHARD, F. ('Rd'), 'Tibet - Notizen über Abstempelungen'
- (Schweizer Briefmarken-Zeitung, Vol.35, No.10, pp.126-127; Oct. 1922) A most important account and listing of the native cancellations, including a drawing of the unique Gyamda flower-ornament type. This is the earliest detailed study of Tibetan postmarks, the main source for Renaut's listing of cancellations.
- 156 RENAUT, F.P., 'Tibet' (Stanley Gibbons Monthly Circular, No.46, pp.310-314; June 1923) A useful article on Tibetan postal history. The section on postal markings, often quoted and invariably misinterpreted by subsequent authors, was obviously borrowed from Reinhard's article but lacks the decisive drawings of the latter.
- 157 RHODES, N.G., 'The Williamson Collection of Tibetan Stamps' (Postal Himal; in print) The author gives a very detailed account of a collection comprising various sheets of the rare first settings of the 1933 issue. The 1/2 trangka appears to have been the first value to require a second setting.
- 158 RICKETTS, M.L., 'Postal History of the Mails between Nepal and Tibet, 1911-61' (SPA-Journal, Vol.42, No.2, pp.59-64; Oct. 1961) This is a very good article on the postal histories of Nepal and Tibet, with interesting illustrations of combination covers.

- 159 RICKETTS, M.L., 'The Tangled Tale of Nepal-Tibet Postal History'
  (Yearbook of the American Philatelic Congress, Vol.34, pp.43-51; 1968)
  The author treats the same subject as in his previous article. This second version is improved and enlarged. A most interesting article, excellently written and with new, useful illustrations.

    (The Philatelic Folio, Vol.1, No.4, pp.137-143; Dec. 1952)

    An illustrated article on the Waterlow essays of the 1912 issue. A very detailed and interesting study whose illustrations include portions of the papermaker's watermark.
  - 201 THOMPSON, L.B. and MARTINELLI, A.C., 'Chinese Post Offices in Tibet' (The Philatelic Folio, Vol.2, No.5?, pp.10-34; Mar. 1953)
    The best study of the postal history of the Imperial Chinese period, although postal markings are not treated. Very thorough, informative and well-written. With some illustrations.
- 202 TOLMAN, E.M., 'Chinese Tibetan Postmarks'
  (The China Clipper, Vol.16, No.6, pp.103-106; Nov. 1952)

  A useful article on the postmarks of the Imperial Chinese period. A number of rare covers are recorded and dated. With interesting illustrations.
- 203 TOLMAN, E.M., 'Tibet The First Chinese Lhasa Postmark'
  (The Collectors Club Philatelist, Vol.51, No.4, pp.205-209; Jul. 1972)

  An excellent study of the Imperial Chinese cancellations of Lhasa. The author proves that Waterfall's type C-2 was actually the earliest cancellation in use, followed by C-1. With illustrations of rare covers.
- 204 TONG-YUAN, LI, 'Hsi-tsang yu pi kao' ('A Study of Tibetan Stamps and Currency')
  (Taipei; 228pp.; 1959)
  Chinese text. This is a handbook on the stamps, coins and banknotes of Tibet. The philatelic section contains several colour plates, some of which show sets of forgeries. The postmarks drawings are highly unreliable, often totally imaginary artist's impressions. (Cf. No. 648).

301 DAHNKE, K.H., 'Staatsbrief' chen Lamas, Ambans, etc.

Notes on covers bearing Amban seals, with an illustration and translation of a cover of 1908. The author explains that many so-called Mandarin covers are nothing but common envelopes with red central strips.

- (Die China-Philatelie, No.33, p.46; 1977) An early Dalai Lama letter, of 1857, illustrated and translated.
- 39 DAHNKE, K.H., 'Tibet Handbuch und Katalog der Marken und Stempel' (Bayreuth/Essen: Forschungsgemeinschaft China-Philatelie e.V., pp.32a, 53-55; figs.23-23a, 121-130, 203, 212, 217-220; Apr. 1978-Mar. 1982) This handbook contains several important illustrations of ink and wax seals of Dalai Lamas, Pan-

  - Umschau-Verlag, pp.55, 220; Oct. 1982) Illustrations of a Dalai Lama letter of 1857 and of two Amban covers, all bearing red ink seals.
- 302 FIELD, D., 'The Publisher's Corner' (The West-End Philatelist, Vol.1, No.1, p.42; May 1904) Brief notes on a wax seal of the pre-stamp period, here erroneously described as a 'genuine postage stamp'. With an illustration of this seal.
- 303 FRANCKE, A.H., 'Note on the Dalai Lama's Seal and the Tibeto-Mongolian Characters' (Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society of Great Britain and Ireland, pp.1205-1214; Oct. 1910; pp.204-207, 528-530, 822-825; Jan., Apr. & Jul. 1911) Various authors discuss the inscription of the 13th Dalai Lama's large seal. The article contains a chart of the Horyig characters, used in Tibet for seal inscriptions.
- 304 HELLRIGL, W.C., 'Tibetan Seals' (Postal Himal, in print) A series of illustrated articles on Tibetan ink and wax seals, introducing several unrecorded types.
- 119 MACDONALD, D., 'The Land of the Lama' (London, 1929. Reprinted as 'Cultural Heritage of Tibet', New Delhi: Light & Life Publishers, pp.32, 43, 81, 93, 132, 208, 228, 239, 257, 262-265; 1978) Useful information and good illustrations of several interesting and important ink seals.
- 120 MARRINER, T.F., 'Tibet' (Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, Vol.46, pp.162-164; Oct. 1936. Reprinted in The China Clipper, Vol.1, No.4, pp.7-10; Apr. 1937. Reprinted in World St. Dig., pp.343-347; Aug. 1938) Wax and ink seals are given the status of postage stamps, an error copied from D. Field's article of 1904.

- 305 MOSS, A.B., 'Notes on the Early Life and Career of Laden La'
  (Postal Himal, No.27/28, cover, pp.52-57)
  Interesting illustrations of various seals of the 13th Dalai Lama and the Prime Minister of Tibet. Shown and fully translated are a Dalai Lama letter and Tibetan passports issued in connection with the British Mount Everest expeditions of 1922 and 1924.
- 138 NEWMAN, T.M., 'Tibet'
  (The Collectors Club Philatelist, Vol.19, No.1, p.35; Jan. 1940)

  Illustration of a letter inscribed by the 13th Dalai Lama and bearing a wax impression of his small seal.
- 141 ORTH, A., 'Tibet seine Postgeschichte von 1854 bis 1925'

C) CATALOGUES

A NATIVE POSTMARK OF LHASA

- 360 CHOW, M.D., 'Descriptive Catalogue of Chinese Postage Stamps' (Shanghai: M.D. Chow; 1937) I have not seen this catalogue.

of postal markings.

- 361 GIBBONS, S., 'Tibet' (London: Stanley Gibbons Publications; Catalogue Part 17, 'China', pp.209-210; Jun. 1982) This is the best of the periodically published general catalogues. The listing comprises the most important shade varieties.
- 362 HISCOCKS, S.E.R., 'Tibet' (Woking: S.E.R. Hiscocks; 'Telegraph & Telephone Stamps of the World', p.282; 1982) A priced and annotated catalogue listing the set of so-called wireless-telegraph stamps.
- 363 LIPSIA BRIEFMARKEN-KATALOG, 'Tibet' (Lipsia: Enzyklopädie-Verlag; 'Ostasien-Katalog', pp.37, 320; 1960) This listing is based on Scott's Catalogue.
- 364 LIVINGSTON, L.F., 'Postage Stamps of China, Japan and Tibet' (Baltimore: L.F. Livingston; pp.117, 119; 1952) A very brief catalogue listing of no importance.
- 365 LOWE, R., 'Tibet' (London: Robson Lowe; 'The Encyclopaedia of British Empire Postage Stamps', Vol.3, The Empire in Asia, pp.273-277; 1953. Reprinted North Miami: F.Billig, 'Billig's Philatelic Handbook', Vol.39; c.1978) This is a priced, encyclopaedic listing of early British-Indian postal markings used in Tibet,
  - 366 MA, Z.-S., 'Tibet Overprint on Third Imperial Issue' (Shanghai?: Z.-S. Ma; 'Ma's Illustrated Catalogue of the Stamps of China', pp.344-345; 1947) A catalogue listing of the surcharged stamps of 1911.

based on Robson Lowe's previous articles on this subject. With some illustrations and drawings

- 367 MICHEL OBERSEE-KATALOG, 'Tibet' (Munich: Schwaneberger Verlag; Catalogue Part 5, 'Asien', pp.1568-1570; 1983) A fair general listing containing several inaccuracies in the commentary as well as in the listing itself, e.g. the 1933 pin-perforations are omitted while the perforations of the 1912 issue are listed! Included are the so-called official and radio-telegraph stamps. This catalogue is published periodically.
- 368 MINKUS NEW WORLD WIDE STAMP CATALOG, 'Tibet' (New York: Minkus Publications; Catalogue Vol.1, Part 2, p.769; 1980) A fair general listing that comprises the major shade varieties. The so-called official stamps are included. This catalogue is published annually.
- 369 PAPPADOPULO, S.A., 'Thibet' (Shanghai: S.A. Pappadopulo; 'Standard Stamp Catalogue of China and Treaty Ports', pp.76-77; 1935) A brief listing of no importance.
- 370 SCOTT'S STANDARD POSTAGE STAMP CATALOGUE. 'Tibet' (New York: Scott Publishing Co.; Catalogue Vol.4, p.711; 1982) A mediocre listing, consisting of the main types only, without taking into account the numerous shade varieties. In lieu of the 1933 issue, this catalogue lists two complete issues dated 1932 and 1934, respectively! The so-called official stamps are also listed. This catalogue is published annually.

- 371 YU, K.C., 'Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue of China' (Taipei: K.C.Yu; 1980)

  I have not seen this catalogue.
- 372 YVERT & TELLIER CATALOGUE DES TIMBRES, 'Thibet'
  (Amiens: Editions Yvert & Tellier; Catalogue Part 4, 'Outre-Mer', pp.689-690; 1980)

  A disappointingly inadequate listing, easily the worst of the periodically published general catalogues. Neither the 1 sang nor the two stamps of the second issue are listed!

QIAN LONG, 1/2 QIAN COIN, YEAR 57 (A.D. 1792)

- 500 ANON., 'Chinese Rupee and its Divisions for Tibet' (The Numismatist, Vol.27, p.542; 1914)
- An article on the history of the minting of the Szechuan rupee.
- 501 ANON., 'Currencies of Tibet' (Salem, Mass.: Essex Institute, 'American Consular Report' No.21188; n.d.) The official coin in Tibet is the 'tang-ka', but coins of neighbouring countries are also current along the borders. In Northern and Eastern Tibet Chinese money as well as sycee silver and copper cash are most frequently used. The Tibetans refuse paper notes. Barter is the rule, the trade on a monetary basis being scarce. Tea bricks are widely used as a medium of exchange.
- 502 ANON., 'Chugoku Kindai Kahei Gaiyo' ('An Introduction to the Chinese Coinage and Paper Money since the 19th Century') (Tokyo; 1967) Japanese text. Tibet: Hsuan T'ung 2nd year, 7th month, 1st day (5 Aug. 1910), the Office for Tibetan Affairs established a mint. A trial issue of two types of copper coins was made, equivalent to 5 silver Li.
- 503 ANON., 'Dating Modern Tibetan Coins' (A Study by Collector's Research, Montreal Journal of International Numismatics, Vol.8, No.2, pp.38-39; 1974) Dates are invariably found on the reverse of Tibetan coins. On copper coins, the dates are usually stated in numerals, inscribed clockwise in the outer rim legend. On silver pieces, the dates are written in words: a) the word 'year' and the year-figures are usually placed in the centre; b) the word 'cycle' and the cycle-number may be written in the centre or in the outside rim legend. Once the cycle and the year are deciphered, the method of converting the Tibetan date to A.D. or C.E. (Common Era) is simplified by the following formula: (60 x cycle) + year + 966 = A.D. or C.E.
- 504 ANON., 'Illustrating the "Illustrated Catalogue of Chinese Coins" (India Asiatic Numismatic Society, Vol.2, No.1, p.77, plates XV, XVI; 1973) Varieties of the '3 Srang', Y.25 (different numbers of flames in the lion's extended fore paw and his tail). The following varieties are listed: 16-7: 4/7, 4/8, 5/8; 16-8: 4/6, 4/7, 4/8, 5/8.

- 508 BELL, SIR CHARLES, 'Grammar of Colloquial Tibetan' (Calcutta: 1st ed., 1919. 2nd ed. reprinted New York: Dover Publications; 1977) An introduction to Tibet's monetary system. The silver coins are: trang-ka, sho-nga, ngü-sang. The copper coins are: kha-kang, kar-ma-nga, chhe-gye. There are no gold coins - in 1918! (p. 136). (Cf. bibliographic entry under 'Primitive Money')
- 509 BELL, SIR CHARLES, 'Portrait of the Dalai Lama' (London; 1946)

The chief monetary unit is the trang-ka, a silver coin with a large measure of alloy. It is divided into six lesser units, known as ka. Owing to over-coinage of copper coins, large quantities of which were counterfeited in India and smuggled across the border of Tibet, the trangka depreciated greatly. Lumps of silver, called 'horseshoes' and varying greatly in size, are used for higher values (p.162). The book contains a photo of 12 Tibetan coins and a silver

    A) NEPAL: The coinage of the Malla Dynasties forms a homogenous complex, spread over a period of about two centuries (1560-1796). With a single exception (a gold coin of Jaya Prakaśa Malla of Kathmandu, dated 1736) the Malla coinage is exclusively of silver. The basic coin was

The basic coin was the 'mohar', struck for the first time by Mahendra Malla of Kathmandu (c.1550-1570) in imitation of the Moghul coinage. From this coin derives the name 'mahendramalli', by which the Nepalese mohar was known until Gurkha conquest. The fractions in common use were the half mohar
  - palese mohar was known until Gurkha conquest. The fractions in common use were the half mohar (suki or suka) and the quarter mohar (sukica).

    B) TIBET: According to an agreement between Mahendra Malla and the Tibetan authorities, his mohar became legal tender also in that region, for which a special type was struck. Later on, the priviledge was extended to the mint of Bhatgaon, which gradually succeeded in obtaining the monopoly of the supply of coins for Tibet. In spite of the gradual reduction of the silver content in the mohar under the last Mallas, this system continued until the Gurkha con-

- distinguish the restrike from the normal coin by the character 'yuan' on the reverse, the top half of which has a closed triangle in the restrikes, whereas in the normal coins this triangle is left open. With illustrations. 613 RHODES, N.G., 'An Assamese-Tibetan Coin' (Spink's Numismatic Circular, Vol.83, pp.288-289; 1975)
- A coin, unique in the Assamese series, is illustrated and described for the first time. It is of octagonal shape and bears Chinese characters on both sides, translated 'Tsang pao'. The date, in Bengali numerals, is 1570 Saka era (A.D. 1648). According to the author, this coin seems to be a solitary survivor of an ill-fated attempt at an Assamese-Tibetan coinage.
- 614 RHODES, N.G., 'An Unpublished Sino-Tibetan Date' (Bulletin Numismatics International, Vol.9, No.4, p.101; 1975) Drawings of two coins of very different styles, dated Ch'ien Lung Y.61 and recorded for the first time. This date is unexpected because the Chinese Emperor Ch'ien Lung only reigned for 60 years and abdicated on 6th February 1796. These Sino-Tibetan coins must have been struck in the weeks before the news of the abdication of Ch'ien Lung had reached Lhasa.
- 615 RHODES, N.G., 'The Coinage of Bhutan' (Oriental Numismatic Society Info-Sheet, No.16; 1977) After a short historical introduction the author divides the coinage in five periods. 44 coins are illustrated (drawings), with many varieties. This part serves as a catalogue.
- 616 RHODES, N.G., 'A Sino-Tibetan Rupee' (Spink's Numismatic Circular, Vol.85, pp.107-108; 1977)
- An extremely rare rupee with legends on both sides poorly written and difficult to interpret. The Chinese characters on the obverse are translated 'Lu Kuan Tsu Yin (?)' (Tachienlu Customs Enough Silver (?)); the Tibetan inscriptions on the reverse read 'nged gsum sho dar' (three sho of Tachienlu, genuine silver). The date of issue lies probably between 1890 and 1903.

- (Oriental Numismatic Society Newsletter, No.51; 1977) A short note on a forgery of the Tibet '7 1/2 skar 15-43' (A.D. 1909, Yeom.11). It can be distinguished by one letter in the word below the lion which is written in a different way. Apart from this, the forgery is of good workmanship and could easily deceive.

  (Oriental Numismatic Society Info-Sheet, No.19; 1978)

  Personal research enables the author to list ten mints established in Tibet during the last 150 years. These are: Dodpal, Giamda, Tip Arsenal, Dode, Mekyi, Ser-khang, Norbu Tsoki, Takpo, Tpchi and Dogu. Each mint is classed with different types of coins produced there, according to historical sources or statements made by the author. The report is completed with drawings of 15 coins and two maps illustrating the positions of the mints 'outside Lhasa' and 'in and

    This is the best substantiated work on the Gaden tangka to date. The author's comments on the secret marks on the tangkas, probably introduced partly as a method of detecting forgeries and partly to identify the date of issue and the official responsible for the mint, are most interesting.

    (Numismatic Chronicle, Vol.141, pp.120-135, pls.24-25; 1981)

    The Garhwal timashas circulated in Western Tibet during the 17th and 18th centuries. Around 1771, Ladakh introduced its own coin called 'ja'u', primarily struck for circulation in Western Tibet. Few ja'u were struck after 1857, but they remained in circulation well into the 20th century, although their origin was not always understood. Later visitors to Western Tibet erroneously referred to the Ladakh ja'u (or timasha) as a Tibetan coin.

  The first general circulation of the Sichuan rupee was recorded at Chungking in November, 1902. It was not an immediate success. Thereafter, the daily output of the mint averaged about 5,000 dragon coins a day, with the addition of Szechuan rupees, from 1903 (p.191).
- 662 WRIGHT, R.N.J., 'The Szechuen Rupee'
  (Coins and Medals, pp.35-36; 1976)

  The author gives important details on the Sichuan rupee. There are two main types:

  1) Bust of the Emperor Kuang Hsu, without collar (obverse), horizontal rosette (reverse).

  This issue, produced in 1903 (or late 1902), was regarded in Western China as being the

During the republican period, a rupee with a crude 'large head' and inferior silver content, appeared at Tachienlu.

  - denominations were overprinted with a single-line Tibetan inscription meaning 'Tibetan Currency Medium'. The author's statement that Tibet used bank notes from about 1889, is wrong: The first notes were issued by the Tibetan Government in T.E. 1658 (A.D. 1912).
- 702 ANON., 'Discovery of the Yuan Dynasty Paper Money' (Tibetan Autonomous Region; Cultural Relics Supervision Committee; Wen Wu, No.9, pp.32-34;
  - 1975)

    Chinese text. This article describes two banknotes of the Yuan dynasty which were found in the Sakya monastery, southwest of Shigatse, Tibet. One note is from the time of Kublai Khan and bears the reign title 'Chung T'ung' (A.D. 1260-1263), and the other is of Shun Ti with the Nien Hao 'Chih Cheng' (A.D. 1341-1367). The Sakya monastery is the centre of the Sakya sect of Lamaism and it is through this sect that the Yuan dynasty managed to control Tibet. This is the possible explanation for Yuan paper money being found in this place.

  - Treasury notes of five, ten, fifteen, twenty-five and fifty trangkas, respectively, are in use, the issues of these notes having commenced in 1914 (p.162). (Cf. bibliographic entry under 'Coins').

It is doubtful whether it ever circulated as currency in Tibet itself.

- PATERSON, D., 'The Tibetan Medal 1903-4'
  (Coins and Medals, pp.22-24; 1980)
  The full story of the British Mission to Lhasa, 1903-04. The Tibet Medal in silver was to be given to all who took part in the Mission or were with the escort. One bar 'Gyantse' was given to all those who participated in the actions in that area between 3rd May and 6th July, 1904. The medals were named around the edge in neat 'running script'. Bronze medals, with or without the Gyantse bar, were given to native carriers and porters who accompanied the Mission and are usually named 'S. & T.' (Supply and Transport) Corps.

  - processes, manufacturers, marketing and costs. The business flourished especially from 1875 to 1900. First in Mongolia, later in Tibet, the bricks assumed a value and were used in trade (at one time five tea bricks were equal to one ounce of silver). In the 1920s Russia became the principal importer though for food rather than as a medium of exchange. Since 1935 the business has noticeably declined.
- 859 WITHAM, P.E., 'China Tea and the Trade Routes' (Royal Central Asian Society, pp.150-162; 1947)

The author gives important details on the tea trade: 'Today brick tea goes principally to Tibet, Sinkiang and Manchuria; 1901 appears to have been the peak of brick-tea production. There was a big trade between China and Russia, but the Russian Revolution in 1917 killed that trade. It is interesting to note that even to this day brick tea serves as a form of currency in Sinkiang and Mongolia. A caravan can be paid for in brick tea instead of in dollars.'

THE AUTHORS

WOLFGANG C. HELLRIGL, born in 1941, is an economist and lives in Bozen, South-Tyrol.

A specialist in the philately and postal history of the Himalayan region, his prime interest lies in the research of native issues and postal markings. He has written many articles on Nepal, Tibet and Jammu & Kashmir, for a number of leading philatelic journals.

Dr. Hellrigl is a member of A.I.E.P., the International Association of Philatelic Experts, and holds memberships of all philatelic Study Circles embracing Himalayan areas of interest.

KARL GABRISCH, born in 1927, is a veterinary surgeon and lives in the Federal Republic of Germany.

For many years his particular interest has been directed to the mo netary history of Tibet, both within this country's ethnographical and political boundaries.

He gradually built up a noteworthy collection of Tibetan coins and notes as well as publications on these topics which now forms the basis for his research.

Dr. Gabrisch is a member of various Numismatic Societies.
